
The shell

Bash:Born again shell

Relative path:

```
pwd: print working directory cd : change directory
.  : the current directory
.. : the parent directory ls: list file in the current working directory ls -l: list file with information cd ~: brings you back to home directory cd -: brings to the directory you previously in rwx: read-write-execute(permission) mv<oldname> <newname>: rename file or directory mv <old directory> <new directory>: Moves file from one to another directory cp <old dir> <new dir>: copy from one directory to another rmdir <name>: remove directory if empty rm <path>: remove the given directory mkdir <name>: create directory man<command>: manual page for the command q: to quit clear: clear shell echo <content> > <filename>: I want content to be stored in filename echo <content> >> <filename>: I want content to be appended to filename cat <filename>: print out content of filename cat > <filename>: take content of filename as your input cat > <filename> > <otherfilename> take the content to the filename and print out
```

ReWire